

Observation Walk

Activity

1. Walk around your schoolyard and look for animal and plant adaptations used for reproduction. This could include male birds that are brightly colored or flowers that have structures that will attract pollinators.
2. Look for other evidences of reproduction such as nests and insect eggs.
3. List what you see and what the adaptation is in your lab journal.

